Jeanne Ziobro Joins PATHS Program LLC as Chief Product Officer

Ziobro brings a background in education, product management, and technology to expand PATHS Program LLC's social emotional learning curriculum delivery.

AVONDALE, AZ — PATHS Program LLC announced the hiring of Jeanne Ziobro as chief product officer. Ziobro joins the company to expand its suite of social emotional learning (SEL) product offerings. Ziobro will identify problems in the educational SEL market, develop a product vision and strategy, and create partnerships and resources to enable hybrid curriculum delivery methods.

“Jeanne brings a depth of experience in education, technology, and product development that will boost our program offerings and community partnerships,” said Anna-Lisa Mackey, M.Ed., CEO of PATHS Program LLC. “By combining the latest research and evidence-based SEL information and educational technology resources, Jeanne can help us accelerate our vision of having a positive impact on the lives of students, families, schools, and communities.”

Ziobro comes to PATHS Program LLC from Livingston Public Schools in Livingston, New Jersey. Her teaching experience includes educating high school students on engineering, virtual reality and augmented reality game design, programming, visual graphic, communications, computer science, and robotics. She brings over 20 years of experience in technology management and product development. Ziobro earned a master of science degree in Management of Technology, and a bachelor of science in electrical engineering, both from Lehigh University.

PATHS Program LLC helps schools, districts, and communities navigate today's and tomorrow's challenges with research-based and evidence-informed culturally relevant social emotional learning curricula, implementation support, and training.
